BILL SUMMARY:

The bill authorizes the construction and financing, without appropriation from the General Fund, of capital improvement projects of the constituent institutions of the University of North Carolina.

ASSUMPTIONS AND METHODOLOGY:

The charts on the following pages were compiled with the assistance of the Associate Vice President for Finance for the UNC Office of the President. The charts show the cost to construct and operate the proposed campus buildings and the source of funds for each facility. The effect of the bond debt on students is also shown. The University expects no increase in operating costs for renovations or for athletic facility improvement. The UNC-Chapel Hill School of Medicine Research Facilities – Addition, the NCCU Biomanufacturing Research Institute and Training Enterprise, and the NCSU Biomanufacturing Training and Education Center are the only projects that require General Fund appropriations for building operations. The Campus Fiber Optic Wiring at UNC-Chapel Hill is a supplement to a $17,533,500 project funded by the 2000 university bond program.
