1 A JOINT RESOLUTION HONORING THE LIFE AND MEMORY OF JAMES

23 Ballentine; and

24 Whereas, Jim Graham was elected Commissioner of Agriculture in 25 November of 1964 and reelected eight times, serving nine four-year terms until his 26 retirement in 2000, when he became the longest serving State Commissioner of 27 Agriculture in the nation; and

1 Whereas, Jim Graham, at the time of his retirement, had served as 2 Commissioner for more than one-third of the entire existence of the Department since 3 its creation in 1876; and

4 Whereas, it was in this position of leadership that Jim Graham served North 5 Carolina so ably, directing North Carolina's modest farm economy that depended 6 largely on cash income from tobacco and textiles to a highly diversified agribusiness 7 community with receipts exceeding $62 billion annually; and

8 Whereas, much of the success of agriculture during the last half century in 9 North Carolina is due to the persistent leadership of Jim Graham, whose own formula 10 for success was summarized by a plaque that he proudly kept in his office, "90% 11 Attitude and 10% Ability"; and

12 Whereas, Jim Graham, during his 58 years in public service served 11 13 Governors and countless legislators and witnessed an unprecedented growth and

2 the eradication of the boll weevil, bovine brucellosis, hog cholera, and pseudorabies in 3 hogs, significant achievements that have led directly to the expansion of cotton and 4 livestock production; and

5 Whereas, while cotton had reigned as king in North Carolina during the early 6 1900s, it had declined to an insignificant crop by 1950, due to the boll weevil. With the 7 eradication of the boll weevil during the 1980s, cotton made a dramatic comeback, and 8 by 2000, the State's cotton crop totaled 1.43 million bales, shattering a previous high set 9 in 1926 by 221,000 bales. North Carolina continues today to be free of the boll weevil; 10 and

11 Whereas, due to the elimination of hog cholera and other animal diseases 12 along with Jim Graham's support of contract farming, the hog inventory increased from 13 just over one million hogs in the early 1940s to over 9.5 million, the greatest expansion 14 occurring since 1991; and

15 Whereas, during Jim Graham's 36-year tenure as Commissioner of 16 Agriculture, North Carolina farmers saw their cash income increase from $1 billion to 17 $8 billion annually; and

18 Whereas, North Carolina leads the nation today in the production of 19 flue-cured tobacco, sweet potatoes, and turkeys, is second in the nation in the 20 production of hogs and pigs, Christmas trees, cucumbers for pickles, and farm-raised 21 trout, is third in poultry and egg production, is fourth in bell peppers, broilers, peanuts, 22 greenhouse nursery products, and strawberries, and is fifth in blueberries, burley 23 tobacco, catfish, and snap beans; and

24 Whereas, as Commissioner of Agriculture, Jim Graham earned the respect of 25 his colleagues and peers throughout North Carolina and the nation for his knowledge, 26 his strength of character, and especially for his great sense of personal integrity; and

27 Whereas, Jim Graham was a person of indefatigable humor, always seeing 28 the best in others, appreciating the true character of the farmer. Once, meeting a farmer 29 with tobacco juice dripping from both sides of his mouth, Jim Graham commented, 30 "There goes a well-balanced man"; and

31 Whereas, Jim Graham was a longtime and devoted member of the First 32 Baptist Church in Raleigh, having served in many capacities, including deacon; and he 33 was a loyal member of the Kiwanis Club of Raleigh for many years; and

34 Whereas, Jim Graham died November 20, 2003, at the age of 82, but his 35 legacy continues with his daughters Alice and husband, Dr. T. Reed Underhill, of New 36 Bern, and Connie and husband, Leslie R. Brooks, of Nashville, Tennessee; and 37 grandchildren T. Reed Underhill, Jr., Laura Underhill, Graham Underhill, Berry Brooks, 38 Lauren Brooks, Allen Brooks, and Grace Brooks; and

39 Whereas, Jim Graham will be remembered by all who knew him as a man
